Using a Systems Perspective to Enhance Transformation

Thursday, April 14, 8:00am - 4:30pm
Henry Center for Executive Development, B106/107
(Continental Breakfast and registration at 8:00am; program begins at 8:30am Lunch will be provided)
(Limited to 50 participants)

Dennis Sergent, President of Sergent Results Group

Leaders of most organizations do their best to understand how to make their part of the organization transform to a new future state. A systems perspective is needed to do this effectively. This program prepares leaders for this challenge with principles, processes and a few simple tools to analyze systems and synthesize solutions for individual and team learning and action. We shall also look at the critical role of leaders in transforming themselves first, to build trust and replace fear by demonstrating the philosophy and principles of systems thinking to the entire team.

Tweet [1]